

Campus of the Future: Higher Education That is Life-long and Life-wide

Join us for the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan's 2017 Fall Kickoff Event

Thursday, September 7
10 a.m. — Noon

Washtenaw Community College
Morris Lawrence Building, Towsley Aud.,
4800 E. Huron Rive Dr., Ann Arbor

Professor Mika LaVaque-Manty will describe recent trends and some of the exciting developments in higher education in general and at public research universities in particular. U-M is among the leaders of academic innovations that combine the university's 200-year commitment on accessible, public, and democratic education. The "college experience" of the future may begin as early as middle school and involve periods of residential activity in classrooms and labs. Mika LaVaque-Manty is an Arthur F. Thurnau Professor, Presidential Bicentennial Professor, and Associate Professor of Political Science and Philosophy at the U-M.
